Prime Minister Attends Emergency Meeting on Haitian Crisis

AFTER addressing St. Lucians in New York over the weekend, on the occasion of the island's 25th Independence Anniversary, Prime Minister, Dr. Kenny D. Anthony returned to St. Lucia yesterday, only to fly out to Jamaica for an emergency meeting of the Caribbean Community (CARICOM) on the situation in Haiti.

Being the Prime Minister in charge of governance within CARICOM and that St. Lucia has invested heavily in Haiti, Dr. Anthony felt compelled to attend the meeting in order to resolve outstanding issues.

Dr. Anthony attended a meeting at 3:00 p.m. local time today, chaired by chairman of CARICOM, Prime Minister of Jamaica, P.J. Patterson.

The departure of Haitian President, Jean-Bertrand Aristide early Sunday morning has raised international concern, particularly within CARICOM. While, in reacting to this latest development, Mr. Patterson said he would not sit around the same table with Haitian rebel leaders who helped oust President Aristide, he pointed out that this would not necessarily translate to a suspension of Haiti from CARICOM.

In fact, when Haiti joined CARICOM in 1998, part of the ideal was to end that country's years of isolation and help promote democracy. However, Haiti's future in CARICOM came under question recently, as its opposition leaders insisted that President Aristide resign and leave the country on a claim of corruption and human rights abuses by his government.

The opposition leaders rejected CARICOM's compromise that would have seen President Aristide serve out the remaining two years of his term of office, but share power with the opposition, while the international community helps it prepare for elections.

When he returns later this week, Prime Minister Anthony will give a briefing on St. Lucia's position.

2003: A Successful Year for Local Manufacturers

MINISTER for Commerce, Tourism and Consumer Affairs, Honourable Philip J. Pierre, has lauded local manufacturer's efforts in boosting the industry's production level last year to reach the international market.

Mr. Pierre, who was at that time addressing the launch of Du Boulay Bottling Company's, newest product, Coco Cola Light at the Coco Kweyol hotel in Rodney Bay at the weekend, described 2003 as a very good year for local manufacturing.

Mr. Pierre stated that during the past year the country had witnessed the formation of strategic alliances among many local companies. According to the Commerce Minister, these companies are now involved in business ventures, making it possible for them to be able to produce internationally renowned and high quality products. Mr. Pierre described Coco Cola Light as an example of a product that is internationally known and is produced locally.

"We want products made in St. Lucia to be of a quality that can be sustained anywhere in the world. And when we speak about buying local, we mean buying quality product" Minister Pierre said.

Mr. Pierre also expressed the hope that the hotels, being aware of the international standard maintained by the manufacturers, would purchase a greater volume of local products to generate more foreign exchange .

Gramacks Headlines Jazz in the South 2004

MAIN organizer for the St. Lucia Jazz Festival, the St. Lucia Tourist Board, has once again thrown its support behind and has fully endorsed this year's Jazz in the South activity. At a press launch on Friday, February 27th, 2004 at the Auberge Seraphine, Tourism Director Hilary Modeste noted that since the inception of Jazz in the South in 1997, the event has grown by leaps and bounds.

One of the major advantages he sighted was the ability of main organizer, the Laborie-based Labowi Promotions to engender increased community involvement, while exposing more and more St. Lucian artistes to growing crowds of local and foreign music enthusiasts. "The relationship with Labowi Promotions has been a really trusting one, as year after year they continue to take on new responsibility. This year is no exception and this allows the Tourist Board the opportunity to lift itself from being a mere participant to have some influence on maintaining the quality of the event," said Mr. Modeste.

The Tourist Board official said that Jazz in the south had taken on its own special uniqueness by featuring a mix of Afro-Cari, and Brazil, to name a few. Tourism Minister, Hon. Phillip J. Pierre expressed the view that the development of Jazz in the south, was in line with government's vision for the overall festival. He said, "I want to explore the people of St. Lucia to continue to try to derive the maximum benefits that can be had from St. Lucia Jazz". The festival provides what he described as a captive audience, with over 10,000 persons visiting the island annually for the festival. "I have said this over again almost to the point of sounding repetitive, however I think it's important and will therefore, say it again. We have to find ways to cause these people not only to return to St. Lucia, but to leave money in St. Lucia," said Minister Pierre. Local musicians, he pointed out should continue to use the exposure that the festival can provide to develop and perfect their craft.

Gramacks band member says he's delighted to perform at Jazz in the South

Jazz in the south runs from May 9th – May 12th and will be staged at Balenbouche, Soufriere, Laborie and Vieux-Fort. Yves Renard of Labowi Promotions informed that performances would come from Garmacks New Generation, a Dominican group based in France; Djo Dezormo out of Martinique; Nachito Herrera and Puro Cubano, a Cuban group based in Minneapolis, USA; Neil Franklyn and Friends; Matrix; Speed; and Barbara Cadet and Friends, among others.

Several sponsors have come on board for the event, with main sponsor being Digicel St. Lucia, who presented a cheque totalling $27,000 towards the staging of the event. The other gold sponsor and long time partner of Jazz in the South is the Bank of St. Lucia.

Over $10,000 for Schools' Food Preparation Competition

THE Ministry of Education has received over ten thousand dollars for the staging of the "Secondary Schools Food Preparation Competition". The main sponsor, the St. Lucia Coconut Growers Association made the presentation last week.

In this competition students must use one of the shortenings manufactured by the association in developing an original recipe. Curriculum Officer Miss Mary Julie King says the competition promotes an understanding of the many ways in which locally produced foods can be used.

She says students will prove through the development of their own recipes, that the shortenings can be combined with indigenous foods, as well as the other traditional staples to make creative foods that are both appealing to the eyes and palate.

This is the second year the association is sponsoring the event, and this year, the company welcomes GBTS as a sponsor and is hoping for others to join them and the Ministry of Education in staging the competition.

Post Disaster Environmental Assessment Manual for OECS

THE first in a series of country specific training courses in the use of a Post Disaster Rapid Environment Assessment Manual is to end here on Thursday, February 26, 2004. The three-day event is being held at the Bay Gardens Hotel in Rodney Bay.

The course targets disaster management professionals and environmentalists and is organized by the Environmental and Sustainable Development Unit of the OECS in collaboration with the National Emergency Management Office (NEMO). The manual is intended to provide an assessment team with meaningful information on damage to the natural environment based on a standardized approach.

According to NEMO's Director Dawn French, normally when a damage assessment is conducted information is gathered from the agricultural sector with primary emphasis on the banana industry, which usually bears the brunt of the storm or heavy winds. She says "notwithstanding the environment itself in terms of the mountains, flora, fauna, beaches and the like, these things are not in themselves captured at present in damage assessment reports."

Consultant and Course facilitator Dr. George Sammy

Consultant and Course Facilitator Dr. George Sammy says a significant component of the manual is that of quantifying in terms of dollars and cents the cost of environment damage, "while at the same time ensuring that activities undertaken in response to a disastrous event do not themselves create environmental problems."

Research indicates that while steps are being taken to reduce the vulnerability of OECS countries to the impacts of disasters, there is a pressing need to integrate environmental considerations into addressing such impacts.

The preparation of the manual and guidelines follows a request by the OECS Environment Ministers. Input for the manual has come from the Caribbean Emergency and Disaster Response Agency (CDERA), as well as the Caribbean Development Bank (CDB), which has invested heavily in pre and post disaster activities within the region.

National Exhibitions Reflect High Level of Confidence

THE curtains came down on showcase 25 on Tuesday, February 24th. The 5-day exhibition highlighted the contribution of the public sector and Non-Government Organisations (NGOs) to the country's process of development over the past twenty-five years.

Cabinet Secretary and Chairman of the Standing National Independence Anniversary Committee, Dr. James Fletcher says Showcase 25 was an opportunity for the public to appraise the products and services provided on the island.

Prime Minister Dr. Kenny Anthony expressed his satisfaction with the standard of events hosted by the Standing National Independence Anniversary Committee, the Cultural Development Foundation and the Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Agriculture.

The Prime Minister says he was heartened to observe the confidence exuded by local manufacturers and service providers. "A few days ago we had an excellent exhibition in Vieux-Fort. A superb exhibition and I saw something at that exhibition that I hadn't seen over the past four years. It is summarised in one word: Confidence. The confidence of the manufacturers and the quality of the products," noted Prime Minister Anthony.

He also reminded the nation that the government continued to place emphasis on Human Resource Development, because a country's survival depended not only on the quality of minds but most crucially, on the quality of its people.
