61.—(1) A supplier shall ensure that a written term in a consumer agreement is expressed in plain and intelligible language.

(2) Where there is doubt about the meaning of a written term, the interpretation that is most favourable to the consumer prevails.

(3) In so far as a term is plain and intelligible, the assessment of its fairness must not relate to -

- (a) the definition of the main subject matter of the consumer agreement; or
- (b) in the case of price, the adequacy of the price or remuneration as against the goods or service supplied in exchange.

Unfair terms

62.—(1) A term in a consumer agreement is unfair if it is to the detriment of the consumer and it causes a significant imbalance in the rights of the supplier and the consumer.

(2) In determining whether a term is unfair the Board or Appeals Tribunal shall have regard to all the circumstances of the case and in particular to the following -

- (a) the bargaining strength of the parties to the consumer agreement relative to each other, taking into account -
 - (i) the availability of equivalent goods or service, and
 - (ii) suitable alternative sources of supply;
- (b) whether the consumer received an inducement to agree to the term, or, in agreeing to the term, had an opportunity of acquiring the goods or service or equivalent goods or service, from any source of supply under a contract that did not include that term;
- (c) whether the consumer knew or ought reasonably to have known of the existence and extent of the term, having regard to any custom of trade and any previous dealings between the parties;
- (d) in the case of supply of goods, whether the goods were manufactured, processed or adapted to the special order of the buyer;
- (e) the nature of the goods or service for which the consumer agreement was concluded;
- (f) the interest of the supplier;
- (g) the other terms of the consumer agreement or of another consumer agreement on which it is dependent;
- (h) the interest of the particular class of consumers who are likely to adhere to the consumer agreement; and
- (i) the circumstances surrounding the conclusion of the consumer agreement at the time of its conclusion.

(3) An unfair term in a consumer agreement is unenforceable against the consumer.

(4) Where a consumer asserts that a term in a consumer agreement is unfair, it is for the supplier to prove that the term is not unfair.

(5) Where the Board or Appeals Tribunal, after having considered all the circumstances contemplated under subsection (2), is of the opinion that a term is unfair, it may -

- (a) rescind or amend the consumer agreement or a term of the consumer agreement; or
- (b) make any other order as may be necessary to prevent the effect of the consumer agreement being unfair or unreasonable to any of the parties, notwithstanding the principle that effect must be given to the contractual terms agreed upon by the parties.

Excluding, restricting or modifying liability

63.—(1) A term of a consumer agreement, including a term that is incorporated in that agreement by a term of the agreement, is void if it purports to exclude, restrict or modify, or has the effect of excluding, restricting or modifying –

- (a) the application of any provision of this Act to the consumer agreement; or
- (b) the exercise of a right conferred by Part V.

(2) A term of a consumer agreement is not to be taken as purporting to exclude, restrict or modify the application of a provision of this Act unless the term does so expressly or is inconsistent with that provision.

(5) Where a term of a consumer agreement or a notice purports to exclude or restrict the liability of a supplier for negligence, the fact that a person agrees with it or is aware of it is not in itself to be taken as indicating the person's voluntary acceptance of any risk.

Indemnity from liability

64. A consumer shall not by reference to any term of a consumer agreement be made to indemnify another person, whether a party to the agreement or not, in respect of liability that may be incurred by the other person for negligence or breach of contract, except in so far as the term of the agreement satisfies the requirement of reasonableness under section 167.

Satisfying reasonableness where agreement terminated

65.—(1) Where, for the purpose of reliance upon it, a term of a consumer agreement has to satisfy the requirement of reasonableness, it may be found to do so and be given effect notwithstanding that the agreement has been terminated by breach or by a party electing to treat it as repudiated.

(2) Where on a breach, a consumer agreement is nevertheless affirmed by a party entitled to treat it as repudiated, such affirmation does not of itself exclude the requirement of reasonableness in relation to any term of a consumer agreement.

Liability for breach

66. Liability for breach of the obligations arising from any provision in an enactment relating to any implied condition or implied warranty in relation to goods is not excluded or restricted by reference to any term in a consumer agreement.

(2) Where a consumer agreement, or any provision of such an agreement is, in terms of this Act, declared to be unlawful, or is severed from the agreement, the supplier who is a party to that agreement shall not, in response to that decision -

- (a) alter any term or condition of any other transaction or agreement with another party to the unlawful or severed agreement, except to the extent necessary to correct a similarly unlawful provision; or
- (b) take any action to accelerate, enforce, suspend or terminate another consumer agreement with another party to the unlawful or severed agreement.

(3) A person who contravenes subsection (3) commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to both.

Substantive and procedural rights

69.—(1) The substantive and procedural rights given under this Act apply notwithstanding any agreement or waiver to the contrary.

(2) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), any term or acknowledgement in a consumer agreement that requires or has the effect of requiring that disputes arising out of the consumer agreement be submitted to arbitration is invalid insofar as it purports to prevent a consumer from exercising a right given under this Act.

(3) Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), where a dispute over which a consumer may commence an action in the court arises, the consumer, the supplier and any other person involved in the dispute may agree to resolve the dispute using any procedure that is available in law.

- (b) are free from any defect that would not be apparent from the description or on reasonable examination of the sample.

(3) Where the consumer has agreed to purchase or lease goods on the basis of a sample, as well as by description, it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods correspond with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description.

(4) In accordance with articles 286 and 305 of the Commercial Code, Cap. 244 of the Revised Laws of Saint Lucia 1957, where the supplier delivers goods to a consumer under a consumer agreement, the supplier shall allow the consumer a reasonable opportunity to examine the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether the goods are in conformity with the consumer agreement.

152. The liability of an insurer under a contract of insurance with a supplier being a contract relating to -

- (a) the recall of goods supplied or proposed to be supplied by that supplier; or
- (b) that liability of the supplier with respect to the possible defects in the goods supplied or proposed to be supplied by that supplier, is not affected by reason only that the supplier gives to the Board, Director or authorized officer information relating to any goods supplied or proposed to be supplied by that supplier.

PART X

PRODUCT LIABILITY

Interpretation: Part X

153.—(1) In this Part –

“agricultural produce” means any produce, whether of the soil or otherwise of stock-farming or of fisheries;

“damage” means death or personal injury to any person or any loss of or damage to any property except land;

“manufacture” in relation to animals or agricultural produce, includes to rear or grow;

“producer” in relation to a product, means the person who manufactured the product;

“product” means any goods, including an animal or agricultural produce reared or grown for supply, and, subject to subsection (2), includes a product which is comprised in another product, whether by virtue of being a component part or raw material or otherwise.

(2) For the purposes of this Part, a person who supplies a product in which other products are comprised, whether by virtue of being component parts or raw materials or otherwise, is not treated by reason only of his or her supply of that product as supplying any of the other products so comprised.

Liability for defects

154.—(1) Subject to this Part, where damage is caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product –

(a) the following persons are liable for the damage –

(i) the producer of the product,

- (ii) a person who, by putting his or her name on the product or using a trade mark or other distinguishing mark in relation to the product, has held himself or herself out to be the producer of the product, and
 - (iii) a person who has imported the product into Saint Lucia in the course of business in order to supply the product to another;
- (b) a person who supplied the product, whether to the person who suffered the damage, to the producer of a product in which the product in question is comprised or to any other person, is liable for the damage if –
- (i) the person who suffered the damage requests the supplier to identify one or more of the persons, whether still in existence or not, to whom paragraph (a) applies in relation to the product,
 - (ii) that request is made within a reasonable time after the damage occurs, and
 - (iii) the supplier fails, within a reasonable time after receiving the request, to comply with the request or to identify the person who supplied the product to him or her.

(2) Where two or more persons are liable by virtue of this Part for the same damage, the liability is joint and several.

(3) This section is without prejudice to any liability arising otherwise than by virtue of this Part.

Defect inferred

155.—(1) A defect in a product is inferred for the purposes of this Part if the safety of the product is not such as persons generally are entitled to expect.

(2) In determining for the purposes of subsection (1) what persons are generally entitled to expect in relation to a product, all the circumstances must be taken into account, including –

- (a) the manner in which and the purposes for which the product has been marketed, its make-up, the use of any mark in relation to the product and any instructions, for, or warnings with respect to, doing or refraining from doing anything with or in relation to the product;
- (b) what might reasonably be expected to be done with or in relation to the product; and
- (c) the time when the product was supplied by its producer to another.

(3) Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), a defect is not inferred from the fact alone that the safety of a product which is supplied after that time is greater than the safety of the product in question.

(4) For the purposes of this section “safety”, in relation to a product, includes safety with respect to products comprised in that product and safety in the context of risks of damage to property and in the context of risks of death or personal injury.

Damage giving rise to liability

156.—(1) A supplier is not liable under section 157 for any damage to any property which, at the time of the damage, is not -

- (a) of a description of property ordinarily intended for private use, occupation or consumption; and
- (b) intended by the person suffering the damage mainly for his or her own private use, occupation or consumption.

(2) In determining for the purposes of this Part who has suffered damage to property and when any such damage occurred, the damage is regarded as having occurred at the earliest time at which a person with an interest in the property had knowledge of the material facts about the damage.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2) -

- (a) a person’s knowledge includes knowledge which he or she might reasonably have been expected to acquire -
 - (i) from facts observable or ascertainable by him or her, or

- (ii) from facts ascertainable by him or her with the help of appropriate expert advice which it is reasonable for him or her to seek;
- (b) the material facts about any damage to property are such facts about the damage as would lead a reasonable person with an interest in the property to consider the damage sufficiently serious to justify instituting proceedings for damages against a defendant who did not dispute liability and was able to satisfy a judgment.

(4) A person is not taken by virtue of this subsection to have knowledge of a fact ascertainable by him or her only with the help of expert advice unless he or she has failed to take all reasonable steps to obtain and, where appropriate, to act on that advice.

Prohibition on exclusions from liability

157. The liability of a supplier to a person who has suffered damage caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product is not limited or excluded by any term in the consumer agreement, by any notice or by any other provision.

Defences in civil proceedings

158.—(1) In any proceedings under this Part in respect of a defect in a product it is a defence to show that –

- (a) the defect is attributable to compliance with a requirement imposed by or under any enactment;
- (b) the product was not at any time supplied by the defendant;
- (c) the following conditions are satisfied –
 - (i) that the only supply of the product to another by the supplier was otherwise than in the course of a business of the supplier,
 - (ii) that section 132(1)(a) does not apply to the supplier, or applies to him or her by virtue only of things done otherwise than with a view to profit;
- (d) the defect did not exist in the product at the time;

- (e) the state of scientific and technical knowledge at the relevant time was not such that a producer of products of the same description as the product in question might be expected to have discovered the defect if it has existed in his or her products while they were under his or her control; or
- (f) the defect constituted a defect in a product that was wholly attributable to the design of the subsequent product or to compliance by the producer to the product in question with instructions given by the producer of the subsequent product.

(2) In this section “in the course of a business” means the daily or routine peculiar to a trade involving purchase, production and sale of usual goods or service and payment and receipt of money.

PART XI

DISTANCE SELLING

Interpretation: Part XI

159.—(1) In this Part “distance contract” means any contract concerning goods or services concluded between a supplier and a consumer under an organized distance sales or service provision scheme run by the supplier, who, for the purpose of the contract, makes exclusive use of one or more means of distance communication up to and including the moment at which the contract is concluded.

(2) A distance contract between a supplier and a consumer in a Member State is effective only if the Member State enters into an Agreement or Protocol under Article 170 of the Revised Treaty with provisions relating to judicial and administrative redress, appointment of a focal point, sanctions, and other information necessary to enforce the distance contract in the Member State.

(3) A distance communication includes the use of electronic mail and electronic commerce by way of letters, catalogues, by facsimile machine, telephone and television.

Application: Part XI

160. This Part does not apply to a contract –

- (a) relating to a financial service;
- (b) concluded by means of automatic vending machines or automated commercial premises;
- (c) concluded with a telecommunications operator through the use of payphones;
- (d) concluded at an auction.

161.—(1) If a Member State enters into an agreement with Saint Lucia pursuant to section 159(2), the Minister may, by order published in the Gazette, give legal effect to the agreement.

(2) An order made under this section may contain such consequential, supplemental or ancillary provisions as appear to the Minister to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of giving legal effect to an agreement made pursuant to subsection (1).

(3) If a Member State amends an agreement made pursuant to section 159(2), the Minister may amend an order published under subsection (1).

(4) Every order made under this section is subject to affirmative resolution.

Prior information requirements

162.—(1) Subject to subsection (2), prior to the conclusion of any distance contract, the supplier shall provide the consumer with the following information—

- (a) the identity of the supplier and, in the case of a contract requiring payment in advance, his or her address;
- (b) a description of the main characteristics of the goods or service;
- (c) the price of the goods or service including all taxes;
- (d) delivery costs, where appropriate;

- (e) the arrangements for payment, delivery or performance;
- (f) the existence of a right of cancellation, except in certain cases where this right does not exist;
- (g) the cost of using the means of distance communication, where it is calculated other than at the basic rate such as premium phone lines;
- (h) the period for which the offer or the price remains valid; and
- (i) where appropriate, the minimum duration of the distance contract in the case of a contract for the supply of goods or service to be performed on a one-time basis or recurrently.

(2) The information under subsection (1) must be provided in a clear and comprehensible manner and in good time before the conclusion of any distance contract.

(3) In a distance contract for the sale of goods, the consumer must receive confirmation of the information under subsection (1) in an enduring medium accessible by him or her.

Acceptance or refusal of distance contract

163. A supplier shall provide the consumer with an express authority to accept or refuse the distance contract and to correct errors immediately before entering into it.

Right of cancellation

164.—(1) A consumer who is party to a distance contract may within seven working days cancel the contract without having to give any reason.

(2) A consumer may cancel a distance contract within fourteen days after the date the distance contract is entered into, if -

- (a) the supplier did not disclose to the consumer the information required under section 162;
- (b) the supplier did not provide the consumer an express opportunity to accept or refuse the distance contract or to correct errors immediately before entering into it.

(3) Where a consumer cancels the distance contract under subsection (1), the supplier shall not impose a penalty and subject to subsection (5), provide a full refund of the direct costs of the goods payable.

(4) A supplier shall refund the consumer within thirty days of the cancellation.

(5) Subsection (3) does not apply to—

- (a) gaming or lottery services;
- (b) travel services;
- (c) audio or video recordings;
- (d) imaging or photography services;
- (e) records;
- (f) computer software;
- (g) electronic storage devices;
- (h) newspapers, periodicals and magazines;
- (i) any other goods or service which provides an immediate benefit to the consumer and was used by the consumer.

Payment by credit or debit card

165. A consumer may request cancellation of a payment to the supplier where fraudulent use is made of his or her credit or debit card by that supplier and the consumer is to be re-credited with the sums paid.

Performance

166.—(1) Unless the parties have agreed otherwise, the supplier shall execute an order made by a consumer within thirty days from the day following that on which the consumer forwarded his or her order to the supplier.

(2) Where a supplier is unable to perform the distance contract because the goods or service is not available, the supplier shall inform the consumer of the situation and refund any sums received within thirty days.

PART XIIMISCELLANEOUS*Reasonableness

167.—(1) For the purposes of this Act, a consumer agreement satisfies the condition of reasonableness only if the term is a fair and reasonable one to be included in the consumer agreement, having regard to the circumstances which were, or ought reasonably to have been known to, or in the contemplation of the parties, when the consumer agreement was made.

(2) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), where a person seeks to restrict liability to a specified sum of money by reference to a notice of a term of the consumer agreement, and the question arises, under this Act or any other enactment, as to whether the term or notice satisfies the requirement of reasonableness regard must be had in particular to —

- (a) the resources which the person could expect to be available to him or her for the purpose of meeting the liability if it arises; and
- (b) the extent to which it was open to that person to cover himself or herself by insurance.

(3) The onus of proving that a term or notice satisfies the requirement of reasonableness lies on the person who claims that it does.

Ambiguities to benefit consumer

168. In any matter brought before the Board or a court, the Board or the court, as the case may be, shall —

- (a) if a provision of this Act, read in context, can be reasonably construed to have more than one meaning, prefer the meaning that best promotes the spirit and purposes of this Act, and will best improve the realization and enjoyment of consumer rights generally; and
- (b) strictly interpret information that is required to be disclosed under this Act and any document prepared or published by or on behalf of a supplier or required to be produced by a supplier, to the benefit of the consumer, so that —

- (i) any ambiguity that allows for more than one reasonable interpretation of a part of such information or document is resolved to the benefit of the consumer, and
- (ii) any restriction, limitation, exclusion or deprivation of a consumer's legal rights set out in such a document or notice is limited to the extent that a reasonable person would ordinarily contemplate or expect, having regard to the content of the document, the manner and form in which it was prepared and presented, and the circumstances of the transaction or agreement.

Trade coupons and similar promotions

169.—(1) A person shall not offer any prize with the intention of not providing it, or providing it other than as offered.

(2) A document setting out an offer contemplated in subsection (1) must fully and clearly state —

- (a) the nature of the prize being offered;
- (b) the goods or services to which the offer relates;
- (c) the steps required by a prospective consumer to accept the offer or to receive the benefit of the offer;
- (d) any person from whom, any place where, and any date and time on or at which the prospective consumer may receive the benefit; and
- (e) a date after which such offer is no longer valid.

Promotional competitions

170.—(1) A person shall not directly or indirectly inform a consumer that the consumer —

- (a) has won a competition, if —
 - (i) no competition has in fact been conducted,
 - (ii) the consumer has not expressly or implicitly entered into such a competition, or has not in fact won the competition,

- (iii) the prize for that competition is subject to a previously undisclosed condition, or
 - (iv) the consumer is required to offer further consideration for the prize, after the results of the competition have been announced; or
- (b) has a right to a prize or benefit —
- (i) that the consumer has not solicited or to which the consumer does not in fact have a right,
 - (ii) if the prize or benefit was generally available or offered to all similar prospective consumers or class of prospective consumers,
 - (iii) if, before becoming eligible to receive the prize or benefit, the consumer is required to offer further consideration for the prize or to purchase any particular goods or services.
- (2) The promoter of a promotional competition shall —
- (a) not require any consideration to be paid by or on behalf of any participant in the promotional competition;
 - (b) file a copy of the competition rules in the prescribed manner and form with the Board no later than the date on which consumers are first able to participate in the competition;
 - (c) make the competition rules available on request and without cost to any participant;
 - (d) not award a prize in a competition to —
 - (i) a winner of the competition if it is absolutely unlawful to supply those goods or services to the prize winner, but this sub-paragraph does not preclude a prize to a person merely because that person's right to possess or use the prize is or may be restricted or regulated by, or otherwise subject to, any public regulation, or

(ii) any person who is a director, member, partner, employee or agent of, or consultant to the promoter, or any other person who directly or indirectly controls, or is controlled by, the promoter, or to a supplier of goods or services in connection with that competition.

(3) For greater certainty in applying subsection (2)(a), a promoter shall be regarded as having required or received consideration in respect of a promotional competition if -

- (a) the participant is required to pay any consideration, directly or indirectly for the opportunity to participate in the promotional competition, for access to the competition, or for any device by which a person may participate in the competition;
- (b) participation in the promotional competition requires the purchase of any goods or services, and the price charged for those goods or services is more than the price, excluding discounts, ordinarily charged for those or similar goods or services without the opportunity of taking part in a promotional competition.

(4) An offer to participate in a promotional competition must be in writing, and must fully and clearly state—

- (a) the benefit or competition to which the offer relates;
- (b) the steps required by a person to accept the offer or to participate in the competition;
- (c) the basis on which the results of the competition will be determined;
- (d) the maximum number of potential participants in the competition, and the odds of winning any particular prize in that competition;
- (e) the medium through or by which the results of the competition will be known, if any; and
- (f) any person from whom, any place where, and any date and time on or at which the successful participant may receive any prize.

- (5) The requirements of subsection (4) may be satisfied—
- (a) directly on any medium through which a person participates in a promotional competition;
 - (b) on a document accompanying any medium contemplated in paragraph (a); or
 - (c) in any advertisement that –
 - (i) is published during the time and throughout the area in which the promotional competition is conducted,
 - (ii) draws attention to and is clearly associated with the promotional competition.
- (6) The right to participate in a promotional competition is fully vested in a person immediately upon -
- (a) complying with any conditions that are required to earn that right; and
 - (b) acquiring possession or control of any medium through which a person may participate in that promotional competition.
- (7) The right to any benefit or right conferred on a person as a result of that person's participation in a promotional competition is fully vested immediately upon the determination of the results of the competition.
- (8) A right contemplated in subsection (6) or (7) must not be -
- (a) made subject to any further condition; or
 - (b) contingent upon a person –
 - (i) paying any consideration to the promoter for the prize, or
 - (ii) satisfying any further requirements than those stipulated in terms of subsection (4).
- (9) The Minister may, after consultation with the Board, prescribe—

- (a) a monetary threshold for the purpose of excluding competitions with low value prizes from the definition of “promotional competition”;
- (b) minimum odds for prizes or categories of prizes offered in terms of any promotional competition;
- (c) minimum standards and forms for keeping records associated with promotional competitions; and
- (d) audit and reporting requirements in respect of promotional competitions.

(10) A promoter shall not continue advertisements of the promotional competition after the promotional competition is held.

(11) A promoter who contravenes this section commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars or, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or to both.
